BORN OF THE SEA

A high-seas
ADVENTURE Story

Around the turn of the century, a young boy from Glasgow Scotland worked as a cabin boy on one of Her Majesty's merchant vessels. Before being promoted to Captain, the boy's duties included keeping the ship's brightwork shiny, which involved the care of the ships' rust-prone steel plates. Keeping the steel plates rust-free required coating the steel with raw fish oil. This process was effective, but the fish oil dried slowly and produced an unpleasant odor.

The young man, Robert Fergusson, tried a variety of fish oils hoping to find one that was odorless and quick to dry. When he became custodian of a laid-up fleet of 100 ships, at the end of World War I, the Captain used them as testing sites for his formula, cooking the oils on a galley stove. In 1921, Captain Fergusson discovered what he had been looking for since he was a cabin boy - a fish oil preparation that prevented rust, was fast-drying and odorless.

Now, over 80 years later this spirit, innovation, and commitment to quality carries over in to every product bearing the Rust-Oleum® name.

BOAT BOTTOM ANTIPOUING PAINT

Put a protective coating below the waterline

- Hard antifouling coating that slowly releases copper, preventing the build-up of barnacles, algae and other marine growth.
- Best for powerboats, racing sailboats, or boats that are regularly hauled and cleaned. The biocide will oxidize when hauled and stored for the season, but can be sanded to regain antifouling protection.
- For mild to moderate fouling conditions in both fresh and saltwater.
- Formulated for use on both trailered boats and boats that remain in the water all season or all year long.
